Work Progresses Nicely on Dam in Big Santa Anita Canyon for Water Supply

Hydraulic Pumps and Huge Cranes Move the Earth From Canyon Walls to Make Foundations for Flood Dam

Construction work on the big dam which is being built in the Big Santa Anita is making big strides these days. For the last two months the construction company in charge has been digging to bedrock along the sides and in the bottom of the canyon and in a comparatively short time this work will be completed and the work of constructing the dam will be ready to start. The construction work is being done by the Ross construction company.

The dam when completed will impound a large amount of water in a lake with several miles of shore line and which will extend in length to within a short distance of First Water Camp. Ranger M. H. Davis has constructed a ranger trail from the dam to the ranger station at First Water to be used in case of fire or other emergency. The new trail shortens the distance between the station and transportation by about 45 minutes and is the most nearly level trail running in that direction.

At the Dam Site
Considerable machinery has been placed in the canyon of the Big Santa Anita and more will arrive when the building of the dam starts. The sides of the canyon walls are being cut down to bed rock by the aid of hydraulic pumps which tear away the soil and loosen rocks of the walls until a solid foundation is reached. At the bottom of the canyon a crane has been installed which is removing the dirt which falls from above and at the same time carves a solid footing for the superstructure to rest upon.

The city of Sierra Madre, the city of Arcadia and the Cook-Woodley estate have filed water claims on the land which will be covered by the lake and when the dam is completed the present water supply will be greatly supplemented by the water to be received from that source. The purpose of the dam is to impound the water which escapes into the ocean in the rainy season so that it will be gradually let out through subsurface drainage so that the wells in the Raymond dyke basin will all be materially benefited by the improvement. Sierra Madre will benefit in this way besides having a right to a large amount of the water directly from the reservoir.

The lake which will be created by the dam will have comparatively no shore line which may be used for resort purposes. The walls for the entire basin are almost perpendicular, but it will nevertheless be a big benefit to the resorts already in the canyon as they will be within easy hiking distance of the lake which will soon abound with good fish, as the Big Santa Anita is already a popular fishing ground and the extra water which will be held by the dam will afford better breeding facilities for the fish.

Road Not Yet Public
A road was constructed during the past few months from the corner of Grand View and Double Drive to the dam, following the side of the mountain. This road in itself called for no little engineering skill and opens up several desirable building sites on the Cook-Woodley estate which have heretofore not been accessible to the public. The road is not yet a public road, it being for the maintenance of the dam only, but it is believed by many that it will only be a question of time until the public will be allowed to use the road and some even predict that within a few years the road will be extended further into the Big Santa Anita to some of the resorts which are now only reached by foot or pack trail.

About half way between the end of Grand View and the dam is a fine knoll containing several acres of level ground which is being held by the Cook-Woodley estate, it is understood, for a hotel site. This when improved, it is claimed, will make one of the finest hotel locations in America, within easy motoring distance of a big city and with in easy hiking distance of a large mountain lake. Within the last few weeks considerable agitation started by the residents of East Grandview for the improvement of the street to the Double Drive. They claim that there is a great deal of traffic between Sierra Madre and the dam, that as time goes on there is bound to be a steady increase and that it is up to the people of Sierra Madre to provide good roads over which to travel. They point out that at present most of the traffic to the dam goes by way of Arcadia while the natural route would be through Sierra Madre if the road were improved.

Observations

By G. B. M.

Jack Buchan says he likes my column, whether he agrees with it or not. What better approval could one wish for? For that I can take up my pencil cheerfully in spite of the weather. When my fingers are too stiff with cold, I'll fall back on the typewriter. My other two readers have gone to the beach. But I'd do most anything to please Jack, even though I can't always satisfy his taste. He particularly liked the observations about "Whole Wheat Today." But not every subject has a kick in it equal to that of bootlegging.

IS THIS EVOLUTION?

About this time every year I am apt to notice some young fellow who looks so big and husky that I have to look twice to make sure of his identity. Had been thinking of him as a youngster of slight build and can't account for the sudden change, until a little later I see him with a pair of ice tons.

Did you ever notice what a developer the ice wagon is? Think back and see if you can't recall someone whose sudden jump out of boyhood coincided with his apprenticeship on the ice wagon.

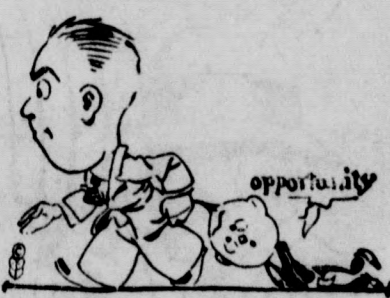

The development is not merely that involved in hard physical labor. Times have changed from the days when the ice man was generally regarded as a pugilistic pirate. Ice companies nowadays put their service on a good will basis the same as other high class industries. They realize the man on the wagon is the one who determines their standing with the public and he has not only to deliver the goods, literally, but to maintain good relations with the consumers.

The boys on the ice wagon can even look forward to growing up as a business man or banker like Cashier W. Herbert Ingraham. Some of us can remember when Herbie served his term on the wagon, although the event is not yet in the 17-years-ago column. It was that summer that he acquired the physique to test bogus $20 gold pieces by biting them in two, and to drive a golf ball so far it is cheaper to buy a new one than to hire a caddy to recover it. It is rumored he is thinking of changing his name so the W will stand for Whizbang.

HOW IT IS DONE

"How do you find business?" asked the pert young traveling salesman. "By going out after it," replied the matter of fact merchant whose orders the p. y. t. s. was seeking.

Which brings to mind the gratifying success which seems to be attending the efforts of Messrs. Pratt and Tyler to operate a high class furniture store in Sierra Madre. They did not sit down and wait for old man opportunity to come along and hand them something on a platter. They went out and grabbed him.

where they found him, catch-as-catch-can.

In spite of gloomy prophecies by various and sundry individuals, they are proving that there are buyers for high class furniture in Sierra Madre who will supply their needs locally if they find what they want here. Customers are finding a splendid assortment of furniture and an opportunity to save real money. And now they are offered all the advantages to be found at the installment plan houses of Los Angeles without many of the disadvantages. On the whole, there doesn't seem to be any excuse for going out of town to buy furniture.

MORE EVOLUTION

Three clerks were asked the same question, says the Safeway Clincher: "What are you doing?" One answered, "Making $20 a week." Another answered, "Sweeping the floor." The third said, "Helping run a huge corporation." Wonder what their answer (Continued on Page Ten)

City Planners In Meeting at Long Beach

A very large body of members and guests of the Association of City Planners of Los Angeles county met at the chamber of commerce of Long Beach on Saturday to enjoy the relief of cool sea breezes and hear one of the most interesting programs of the year. The delegation from Sierra Madre was stronger than ever before and comprised Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Burbank, Mr. and Mrs. Gruit, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Roberts, Mrs. E. B. deGroot, Mrs. Elizabeth Dingman, and Mrs. Emil Sturmthal.

Dr. O. P. Bell of Long Beach gave the first address on the subject of "The Harbor," and in a concise but informative talk filled the audience with facts and enthusiasm about the great project which means so much in the prosperity of Southern California.

Since the government breakwater was completed in 1912 the population of Los Angeles has increased 300 per cent and that of Long Beach 800 per cent. The latter has grown from a small community of 17,000 people in that year to 140,000 at the present time, while property values in the county have increased 1000 per cent in twenty years. That this increase is sane and steady is shown by the fact that there are today over 6,000 factories in operation in the county with an annual output of over a billion dollars, and pay rolls of sufficient size to play a large hand in the stability of the population.

World's Leading Harbor

The harbor when complete will have next to London the greatest dock frontage of any harbor in the world. London—also a man-made harbor—has 218,000 feet of dockage facilities; Los Angeles will have 210,000 feet. And in order for us not to feel that the plans for this great construction venture are merely visionary, let us remember that in twelve years the harbor has already grown from a mud slough to a port doing the second largest volume of business in the United States. This is due not only to the fact that the vast oil fields near by have called for an enormous tonnage to handle their products, but that the business of handling freight in the Pacific area is growing by leaps and bounds. Dr. Bell listed many of civilization's necessities and luxuries which must come from the Orient and Antipodes, such as rubber, hemp, Australian wool, 95 per cent of the silk used in America, and most of the tin. When one learns that a ton of freight may be shipped to Shanghai from San Pedro as cheaply as to Pomona, California, one realizes anew the vast roadways that are opened up to Southern California by the traffic of her port.

It costs $6.00 to transport a ton of steel rails from Antwerp to Los Angeles by water, and $20.00 for the same commodity to be brought from Pittsburgh by rail. A ton of goods may be carried 1000 miles at sea for the same price as it can be hauled 20 miles by a motor truck. Is there any wonder that our inter-coastal trade through the Panama Canal is becoming such a factor in the successful manufacturer's life?

Boulder Canyon Project

Dr. Bell was followed by Mr. Ben W. Spencer, secretary of the Ontario chamber of commerce, who gave the city planners a resume of the Boulder Dam meeting recently held in his city. He reported that Mr. Davis, who has worked for twenty years on the Colorado River investigation for the U. S. Reclamation Service, was present at the meeting, and that Congressman Swing, author of the Swing-Johnson bill, and Congressman Addison Smith of Idaho, chairman of the House Committee on Reclamation, also spoke and emphasized the necessity of the dam at Boulder Canyon.

The high dam for which the Swing-Johnson bill provides, and which the Los Angeles City Water department under William Mulholland feels so necessary to the development of Southern California, will have a fourfold value to the Pacific Southwest. It will provide first for flood control which the Imperial and Coachella valleys need so desperately; then for the conservation and distribution of water for irrigation and domestic purposes; and lastly for the development of 600,000 horsepower of electricity. That Boulder Canyon, which is 110 miles below the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, is the only feasible place for the dam is the conclusion of the U. S. reclamation service, which has spent twenty years in working on the problem. It finds that at Boulder Canyon the dam can be built with the greatest ease as the rock formation is the hardest discovered in the whole course of the river. It will be a comparatively simple task to fill the narrow opening which is only 200 feet wide, between the 600-

Postal Service of City Is Increased During the Last Year, Says Report

Receipts of Local Post Office Smaller This Year Than in Previous Years in Spite of Much Larger Population

June 30 is the end of the fiscal year for the postal department and the statistic sharks are busily making comparisons between the year just finished and previous ones. Inquiry at the local post office brought forth the information that the receipts had fallen off $164.00 from the total of 1924, while the work had increased very considerably. Postmaster Wright states that the only answer to the apparent impossibility is that many of the people of this city are buying their stamps and stamped envelopes somewhere else, not realizing that the allowances for additional help and equipment are based entirely on receipts.

The total receipts for 1923-24 were $11,510.75, the expenditures $11,104.20. Receipts for 1924-25 were $11,346.72, expenditures $12,918.96.

Therefore, while the receipts dropped, the expense of running the office increased $1814.76. However, the major portion of this increase was in the last six months, owing to the salary increase voted all clerks and carriers by the last congress. These cost figures of course apply only to the work of the local office. The expense to the government of handling the incoming mail before it reaches this city and outgoing mail after it leaves this office, is not included.

City Delivery Service

According to Postmaster Wright, Sierra Madre has been favored with some decided improvements in the postal service the past year. The most important was the establishment of city delivery in place of village delivery. The carriers had been giving service which amounted practically to city delivery but they had not been paid for it and the change in their status made it possible to insist on all the requirements of city delivery. With city delivery parcel post delivery is required and, after the necessary amount of routine and red tape, the postmaster was made an allowance for this service and parcel post is now being delivered at all points within the carriers' delivery limits. The postmaster states that many patrons of the office are enthusiastic in their appreciation of this service which saves them trips to the post office this hot weather.

At the request of the postmaster an inspector made a careful survey of the entire city and granted extensions of service in the northwest and canyon sections. The extension into the canyon especially will be of benefit to a large number of people, as arrangements have been made for those living beyond the delivery limit to place their boxes near the swimming pool, so the entire canyon can be served. At the same time the inspector recommended changes in the carriers handling of the routes which makes it possible to cover the entire city twice daily, giving two deliveries where previously there had been but one.

How Public Can Aid

Postmaster Wright said: "I wish I could make the people of this city realize how much they can do to improve the service. I am sure if they understood they would do their part, for, in the many years I have been in touch with activities here, the people of this little town have always come up to the scratch when they realized the necessity. The powers that be in Washington are putting on a very strenuous economy campaign—all of us in the government service are being urged to cut expenses to the limit. In figuring on ways of saving it is very disheartening to see how much time and effort is expended correcting unnecessary mistakes. The amount of money spent for a clerk to correct addresses, look up addresses, send notices on short paid matter, send inquiries for supposedly lost articles, make out claims, answer inquiries, and all the rest of the routine necessary because of carelessness on the part of mailers, is appalling even in a small office like this one. Multiply it by the number of offices in the country and one gets some idea of what taxpayers dig up because we are all more or less careless how we address our mail. It costs us $1,740,000 a year to look up addresses on misdirected mail. It costs two millions a year for "dead letter" service. That money has to come out of the taxes. If a clerk is occupied a couple of hours a day on that sort of work, doesn't it mean two hours a day less time at window service or mail distribution? That means a slowing down of the whole service. It isn't the one letter or paper that you forget to properly address or stamp, it is the one multiplied by fifty or sixty or a hundred of your friends and neighbors.

"Another very important way of helping is to buy stamps at your own home office. We serve many people in this town whom we never see in the postoffice buying even a postal card. They buy stamps somewhere, but it is so easy to have hubby bring them home from the office. It costs money to deliver letters and papers to those people and the packages they have sent out from Los Angeles or Pasadena, but they don't contribute one cent toward that expense. Of course they don't realize that if that keeps up in increasing degree some day soon the cost experts in Washington are going to notify this office that the receipts do not justify the expenses and that there will have to be a cut in the number of employees or in the allowance for clerical help. That means slower service for everybody.

"The town is growing and the work is growing in proportion, but the receipts are not and they must grow or the standard of service cannot be kept up. Increased work calls for increased help and at present I am fighting against a decrease."

Land Values Given Boost By Assessor

Revaluation of Sierra Madre real estate by the land valuation department of the county assessor's office is bringing some surprises to Sierra Madre property owners who take the trouble to investigate their assessment. The new tax roll is now in the hands of the board of supervisors who sit as a board of equalization until July 20. After that date no protests will be received and taxes will be assessed accordingly.

It has been about four years since a general revision was made of Sierra Madre land valuations. There have been some big increases in that time. Just how accurately the upward market values has been reflected, or how some well known inequalities have been leveled, could only be told by detailed study of the entire roll.

According to reports from presumably reliable sources, the greatest increases are shown in upper foothill property, which has seen marked increase in popular favor, and consequently in market valuation. It is estimated the revised assessment roll will show an increase of 25 to 30 per cent over that of last year.

Word received from Miss Beatrice Stevenson who is attending the summer missionary school at Asilomar, is to the effect that she is enjoying her course thoroughly and is very enthusiastic over the place. She expects to return to Sierra Madre on Saturday.

Mrs. J. M. Campbell will return from Seattle the first of the week after spending two months there, the guest of her daughter and family.

Mrs. Marie Adelmeyer took seriously ill Saturday morning and was taken to the Monrovia hospital where she underwent an operation. She is reported to be getting along nicely and will probably soon be out of danger.

Few Fires This Year Says Ranger

Thanks to the splendid cooperation of the people who use the mountains as a playground, the small fires have been kept much lower this year than any year previous, according to Forest Ranger M. H. Davis. Mr. Davis says that the hikers and visitors to the mountain resorts have shown such a spirit of cooperation this summer that what is usually a very trying period has proven this summer to be very pleasant and that only one fire has been started this year, while last year there were no less than five reported by the time the summer had advanced this far.

A new patrolman has been added to the force for work in the Big Santa Anita. He is H. F. McDonald, who will be on duty until the fire season is over. H. H. Coleman has also been installed as lookout on Mt. Wilson. Beside these additions three men have been sent to the back country on trail maintenance work in order to have them available in case of a fire, and two or three will be put in the Big Santa Anita soon.

Registrars are being placed at the beginnings of all the mountain trails during the week ends and it is expected that they will soon be ordered on duty daily. These men caution all persons entering the danger zone of the existing regulations and see that every precaution possible is taken before they start into the mountains.

J. M. Campbell, assistant street superintendent, suffered a painful injury to his right hand when he attempted to start the street roller by turning over the huge flywheel, caught his hand in the mechanism and received deep cuts.

Mrs. Zola Bonar Lamb and daughter Patricia returned the first of the week from Long Beach where they have been visiting several weeks.

Young Man Will Study Fisheries

Ernest Pegler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carlton J. Pegler of East Live Oak, has taken a position with the state bureau of fisheries at San Pedro. Ernest graduated from Pasadena high school in June and expects to return to enter junior college in the fall. After spending the summer at practical work with the fisheries bureau, he will continue his studies with the aim of advancement in that line.

The work of the bureau of fisheries is very little known to the public and offers a splendid field for advancement to the young man. Development of the fisheries business is in its infancy in this country and the commercial and government agencies have difficulty in securing enough men of the right kind to carry on the work. With rapidly increasing population, food problems becoming more acute, and pasturage for live stock becoming scarcer, it is inevitable that sea foods will become more widely used. The industry therefore appears to have a certain great future.

Mrs. Fred Pagenkopf was taken to the Sierra Madre hospital Thursday night and is reported to be in a serious condition. Mrs. Pagenkopf underwent an operation several weeks ago and has been in poor health ever since.

foot cliffs at the selected point. The initial cost will be about $70,000,000 with the repayment spread over a period of fifty years.

Two and one-half million acres of land can be irrigated from this dam, and 30,000,000 acre feet of water may be impounded at one time. At present this vast supply of much needed fluid is not only wasted by flowing uninterruptedly to the sea, but is an expense and danger along its lower reaches, where the river must be held back by expensive and not always safe dikes. Its bed is many feet above the valleys it traverses and is constantly being built up higher by the sediment carried down in the rushing waters.

More Than State Problem

Mr. Spencer made a strong plea for the support of the Swing-Johnson bill and pointed out the futility of planning cities, highways, parks, or even a harbor if we do not get the water we so desperately need.

Lutheran Church

There will be services this Sunday, July 19, at 11 o'clock, in the City Park house. Plans will be adopted at this service for the summer. Early in September regular services will be conducted. Dr. Ziegler preached the last two Sundays in Pasadena. He is meeting with success in securing cash subscriptions toward the payment this month on the grounds for the Home for the Aged. A contribution will be gratefully accepted.

Los Angeles Home Owners Lead Nation

More than 40 per cent of the families in Los Angeles reside in homes which they own, a fact which places that city as the leading city for home owners, according to a survey conducted by the United States census bureau for the eighteen largest cities of the country.

With the census report as an incentive for investigation, Southern California Business, the official magazine of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, has looked further into the home owner situation with the result that the editor of the magazine declares that the same holds true of Southern California as compared to other centers of population in other states.

While exact figures are not given for territory outside of cities, it is shown that 41 per cent of the people of Los Angeles own their own homes. Following is a list of large cities in the United States giving home ownership percentages:

Atlanta	22.7
Baltimore	36.0
Boston	18.2
Chicago	26.1
Cincinnati	24.3
Cleveland	35.9
Denver	34.2
Detroit	39.5
Kansas City	31.7
Los Angeles	41.2
Milwaukee	35.9
New Orleans	22.8
New York City	12.2
Philadelphia	29.4
Pittsburgh	27.7
St. Louis	23.9
San Francisco	28.2
Washington, D.C.	26.6

In arriving at these figures no short time period was considered, the totals being an average over a period of 30 years taken from the census of 1900, of 1910 and of 1920. This was done in fairness to cities other than Los Angeles and Detroit, these two having the largest percentage. If an average was struck today for the same cities it is shown that the figures for Los Angeles and Detroit would be greater than shown by the 30 year average. However, other cities in the United States have not grown so rapidly in the past five years and consequently are entitled to a broader range of years for a computation of home ownership.

While this may seem like strange reasoning, it is nevertheless true, for it is known that new residents in Los Angeles are quick to become home owners and that residents in cities of less rapid growth are slower in acquiring homes. Also it is known that while new arrivals in Los Angeles are quicker to acquire homes, they become so well satisfied with their surroundings, the climatic conditions, the working conditions, and living conditions that they remain home owners.

AID SOCIETY PLANS BEACH PICNIC PARTY

Members of the Aid Society of the Congregational church are invited to a picnic in Bixby Park, Long Beach, Tuesday, July 21. Mrs. Cover is perfecting the plans at Long Beach, while Mrs. E. E. Bacon and Mrs. R. J. Lord are attending to details in Sierra Madre.

These ladies will especially appreciate it if men or women able to act as motor hosts will phone them, since many automobiles will be needed. All women planning to attend must make reservations not later than Monday morning.

The Christian Endeavor society has been competing with the Pasadena district in a Be-Ye-Doers contest for the last nine months. The Bethany C. E. won the banner for the most points per capita.

The Los Angeles County C. E. union awarded them a Be-Ye-Doers banner last April at the Los Angeles county convention in Pasadena.

They also won a banner for registering such a large number of their members for the state convention at San Diego July 24 to 28. They have done exceptionally well, having won the contests over so many other societies, many of which in the big cities are much larger.

IN MEMORY

Mrs. Anna Protz, aged 27 years, passed away at her home on Highland Ave., Thursday morning, July 2, at 7:15, after an illness of about five years. She is survived by her husband, John Protz, of this city; also a number of relatives in Canada. Funeral services were conducted by Father Bennet at St. Rita's Monday morning at 8:30. Burial was in Calvary cemetery.

She lived within a sin bound world, In fear and ills she toiled.

It seemed as if a long, sad dream Held her in its coils.
I watched the lily droop her head, And then, it was as if I heard The soft voice speak so tenderly, It seemed so near to me
And like like an angel call, I listened until I heard again, "O ne'er did sparrow fall Without our Father's notice, for Love watches over all."

"Yes, sir, that old Ford hasn't soldiered a day since I took to using this new Zerolene 'F' for Fords."

Ford owners who "tried out" Zerolene "F" for Fords when it was first put on the market have been sticking to it ever since.

Zerolene "F" for Fords is made by the Standard Oil Company's patented vacuum process. It lubricates all the bearing surfaces where oil is needed, especially the wrist-pin bearings and the upper half of the cylinder walls, which are frequently "oil-starved" when an unsuitable lubricant is used. The result is improved gasoline mileage, quicker starting and increased freedom from carbon and other motor troubles.

A Ford is an A-1 transportation investment. Protect your investment by proper lubrication.

Pythians to Have Big Day At Monrovia

Knights of Pythias from all over Southern California will gather at Monrovia on Saturday, July 25, with their families for a big celebration. The main attraction will be the open air ceremony by the Dramatic Order of Khorassan, sponsored by Al Borak Temple No. 75, at "Point Lookout," Cliff Dwellers Park.

The Gem City Lodge No. 72, of Knights of Pythias, joins with the City of Monrovia in the invitation to all Pythians, their families, Pythian Sisters, Dokeys, Nomads and friends to spend Saturday, July 25 in Monrovia enjoying the fun. This ceremonial promises to be the most spectacular that has ever been staged by the temple.

The committee on arrangements has been working several weeks on new and brilliant ideas to instill pep, ginger, fun and frolic into the hearts of all those who attend.

It is reported that several live tigers have been captured and will be kept in the Monrovia city jail until the date set for the repast, and until that date they will not be fed so their appetite for neophytes will be especially keen.

All D. O. K. K. Temples from San Diego to Fresno have been invited to take part in the ceremonial. The attractions include band concerts, entertainments by the Monrovia Chamber of Commerce, swimming in the new municipal pool (free to Pythians and guests.) At 5 o'clock will begin the serving of the big barbecue, immediately followed by the parade which will surpass anything ever before attempted at a D. O. K. K. ceremonial.

Point Lookout in Cliff Dwellers Park is the spot where the neophytes will meet their fate. It is easily reached by a good auto road. Large searchlights will illuminate the whole hill.

Every Pythian is especially urged to note the date and be present. If not a Dokey, come anyway and bring your family.

Fine Fishing In California Lures Many

Sparkling streams in the mountainous "back country" to the east and north of Los Angeles now are holding out a lure to the trout fishing vacationist, who is responding this summer in greater numbers than ever before in local sporting annals, according to figures just compiled here.

Trout streams are reached over good roads and are found trickling their sparkling ways through gorgeous and inspiring scenic spots. They lie mostly along the road that traverses Owens river valley towards Mono Lake.

In the Owens River Valley, where streams are populous with fish, there is a state highway, much of it is paved and all in good condition. There are no steep grades, the road-bed is wide, there are ample supplies to be had at Lone Pine, Independence, Big Pine, Bishop and Bridgeport, as well as many points between them for a distance of more than 120 miles.

Among the choicest creeks and lakes where there are ideal camping conditions and trout fishing, are Lone Pine Creek, George Creek, Williamson Creek and Pine Creek. These lie between Lone Pine and Independence, a distance of less than 18 miles.

Between Independence and Big Pine are a number of creeks that furnish an abundance of sport to the fisherman, including Oak, Sawmill, Red Mountain, Birch and Little Pine. Just above Independence is a state fish hatchery from which hundreds of streams and lakes in the valley are stocked with fry. This affords an interesting sight to the tourist who is welcome at any time to make a study of the way in which trout are hatched and prepared for the waters of Owens valley.

Above Bishop are found Horton Lake, Birch Creek, Pine Creek, Rock Creek, lakes, Hilton Creek lakes, Little lakes, McGee Creek, Convict Lake and Convict Creek, Twin Lakes, Mammoth Creek.

Phila. Runs With L.A. for Harbor Honor

Jumping from tenth to fifth place in the short course of the year 1924, Los Angeles city's port now stands next to Philadelphia's in importance, according to the annual survey of water-borne foreign commerce of the United States, just received here. The five leading ports of the country, in points of volume of exports and imports, now are New York, New Orleans, Baltimore, Philadelphia, and Los Angeles, the survey declared.

City Planners In Meeting at Long Beach

He stressed the fact that the project must be carried out by the federal government rather than by a state or corporation. The river is not only an inter-state problem but an international one. With government ownership of the dam the water may be justly distributed to all those within the many districts it can supply, and power sold both to cities and private companies.

The business meeting of the morning closed with one of Mr. G. Gordon Whitnall's splendid talks on "What a City Planning Commission Should Do for the Community."

Why Are Cities?

He sketched the growth of city planning back to the days when it began as the "City Beautiful" movement, and said that he believed that name, which was in a way a misnomer, had retarded the best efforts of city planning, as the general public is apathetic to mere beauty and demands, rightly, that general order must be obtained first and embellishment follow after.

"Geography is not a city," Mr. Whitnall says. "The Mojave desert has plenty of geography, if that were all that was necessary. A city is more than physical things, more than commerce and industry. Our present industrial life compels people to live in cities and individuals have now mostly become merely cogs in a machine. One man used to make a whole wagon in his own shop. Now thousands of men make parts for Fords, yet no man can make a whole Ford alone. He must co-ordinate with his fellow worker and thus must live mostly in urban communities."

"People come to Los Angeles either because they like it here, or because they did not like it where they were already living. It is universal to want better living conditions, and the yardstick of the city planner should be making living conditions better. Industry, commerce, everything should come after living. Industry is not the END, it is the MEANS of life. The same holds true of commerce and all of these necessities, living, industry and commerce, should help each other. Otherwise our cities and lives are a hodge-podge."

"Planners must first discover the reason for the existence of a town, and then develop that reason. All communities are inter-related and inter-dependent but each one offers one special thing that is its reason for existence. For instance, Long Beach has beach, view, breeze, harbor and oil. Los Angeles has something else. So have Pasadena, and Hollywood, and even Watts. But Long Beach, to be all that Long Beach should be, must develop ITS resources, and make itself an individual community to be remembered for its own special gifts, and not just a city like a thousand others anywhere on the face of the earth."

Each city must analyze itself, classify itself, and then go to work. Find out what you want to be and should be, and then BE it. That's the job for city planners—to interpret the ideal of a community, a composite citizenship, and put into force its interests as a whole, and not just the interests of a chamber of commerce or a group of churches, or any other one part of a city, but of the best interests of the combined forces of its citizenry." After the luncheon which followed Mr. Whitnall's talk, the Long Beach hosts provided an enlightening and entertaining trip over the harbor on board two excursion boats chartered for the occasion. Inland dwellers were thus enabled to see the great things that have already been done at the port. M.H.R.

Trade among Friends

No matter what some folks say to the contrary, there certainly is a lot of sentiment in business. Friendship, for instance, makes more satisfactory sales than all the cleverness and argument in the world.

You like to trade at a certain store—not because its counters are arranged in a scientific way, but because the folks who serve you are always friendly and helpful.

Just that very thing—FRIENDLY SERVICE—is the power that draws people together into communities like this, where everybody can enjoy the many benefits of neighborly cooperation.

And FRIENDLY SERVICE is the sentimental reason why you find it very much to your advantage to trade with our advertisers—to buy where you feel at home, where your friends will see that you are well satisfied.

California Is One of Safest Places Known

"California is one of the most secure, if not the most secure, place to live in the world," says C. G. Milham, executive secretary of the All-Year Club of Southern California. Relative to the Santa Barbara earthquakes and previous earthquakes Mr. Milham says:

"The quake of Santa Barbara has receded in time so that it can be seen in proper perspective.

"A fact-finding committee of engineers and others has made its report. This shows that in popular imagination a major tragedy has been mentally created out of a decidedly minor one.

"The quake, contrasting with our year in and year out experiences, reveals by contrast that California is one of the most secure, if not the most secure, place to live in the wide world.

"In all California history there have been only three earthquakes with death rolls. One in 1812, one in 1906, and one at Santa Barbara June 29. The total death list for all California for all history from tremors is less than 800. The total death list in Southern California is less than 100.

Bears Comparison Well

"When we consider that this is a record of more than 200 years, we must realize how happy we can be in our freedom from natural violence. California is free from flood, cyclone, tornado, excessive heat and excessive cold. In scores of places more have been killed by a single blow by cyclone or flood than have been killed by natural violence in California from earthquakes and all other natural causes in its entire history.

"The material damage at Santa Barbara is estimated to be between $8,000,000 and $10,000,000. This is one-twenty-fourth of the building that was done in Los Angeles in the year 1923. It is only one-fifth of the value of a huge New York skyscraper. It is equal to the normal building for Santa Barbara for two years. That is if building there had been suspended for two years, the loss would be as great as that caused by the quake.

"The city has 5,500 buildings. Of these five per cent or 275 suffered measurable damage. About 80 suffered severe damage and perhaps from 20 to 40 will have to be torn down. The city was not leveled. The real cracking of buildings was limited to less than two per cent of its area. One may ride through Santa Barbara streets in any but the business section for miles without encountering a single sign of damage."

State Makes Merry During Jubilee Year

Observance of 1925 as the Diamond Jubilee Year of California, marking the 75th anniversary of California's admission to the union, will be marked by fiestas and pageants in more than 50 cities which will recall life in the state during the "days of the Dons" under Spanish dominion which has given so much color to history.

All sections of the state will participate from the Mexican boundary to the Oregon line and both men and women's business, civic and social organizations are accepting the idea with considerable vigor. Beginning this month there will be a number of flower festivals in various cities and the celebrations will continue throughout the summer and probably into the fall months.

In June there was a cherry carnival, a state beauty pageant, pageant plays at Hemet and San Juan Capistrano, and a Spanish fiesta at Hollywood. For July the program includes a rodeo, a flag festival, a Spanish pageant at Berkeley, a Redwoods play in Sequoia National Park and an Indian field day in Yosemite Valley, besides aquatic sports. August will provide a tournament of lights and a marine fashion show at the beaches, a greater movie week in Los Angeles, an old Spanish days fiesta at Santa Barbara, the Dons of Peralta Festival at Oakland, and many others.

Statehood for California was bestowed on September 9, 1850, upon a population of only 92,597. The estimated population today is more than 4,000,000.

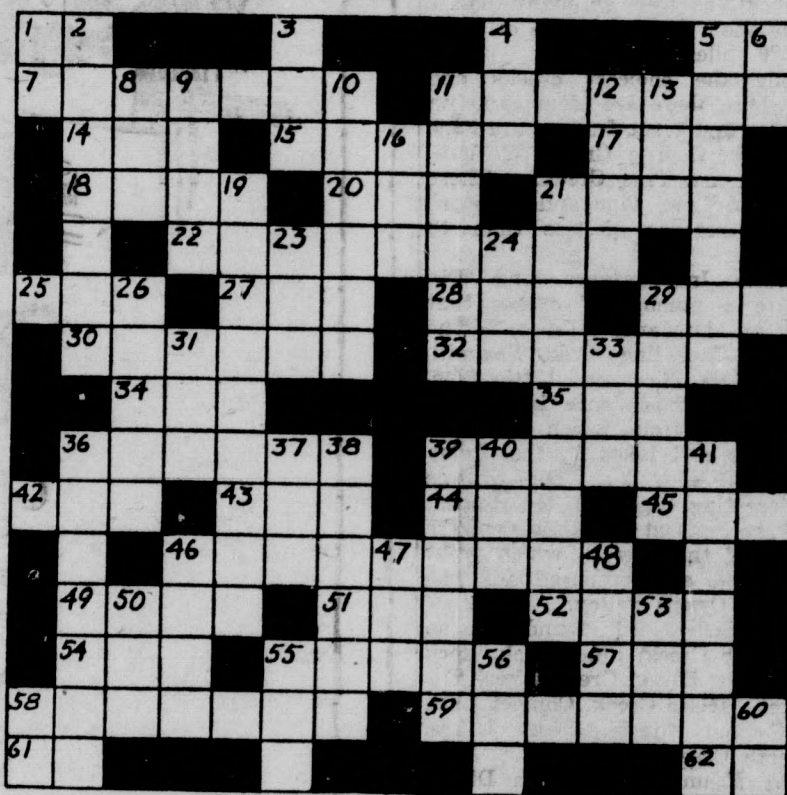

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Hartman expect to begin the erection of a new home soon on a beautiful building site at the head of Lima Street.

W. J. Ladd is building an addition to his home at 258 Mariposa Ave.

CROCKEYJOY ADVENTURES

By BETTY BROWN

Ruth Meets a Crockeyjoy

IT WAS a rainy day. Ruth had been playing house with her dolls in the attic. The patter of raindrops on the gable roof had made her feel a bit drowsy, when—out from behind an old trunk in the corner stepped the queerest old man. His clothes were cut in the same pattern as those of a Dutchman she had just seen in an old-fashioned picture book. He had long, white whiskers. On his head was a tall, brown, sugar-loaf hat. His eyes were big and shiny. He looked very odd indeed. But he had the sweetest sort of a smile, and his voice was low and musical.

"Just take my hand," he said to Ruth, "and I'll show you some very marvelous things."

Ruth wondered what her mother would say. The old fellow looked so kind and nice, though, that she felt sure everything would be all right. Rather timidly, she reached out her hand to the Crockeyjoy. He led her across the room, then out the window into the roof. It had stopped raining. To Ruth's surprise the roof kept all the while growing bigger and flatter. It took more than five minutes for them to reach the edge of the gutter-spool. There in front of them was a big green disk. As they stepped out on it the disk swayed back and forth. Suddenly, Ruth realized that it was a leaf she was standing on, and that she had been getting smaller instead of everything else growing bigger.

They climbed a long hill. At the top of it the Crockeyjoy pointed out some strange things which looked like castles in the distance. All at once there was a great whistling sound, and Ruth saw what seemed to be doors and windows fly wide open.

"Don't be frightened," said the Crockeyjoy, "that is only the tree breathing. Trees breathe just like people, only they use a different part of the air. And—but, it's late and we must hurry home before dark."

They ran back. Ruth sat down in her chair, and as the Crockeyjoy waved good-by, her mother called, "Come to supper, Ruth dear."

Through the Wall Paper

RUTH had been ill with the measles. This morning she felt much better, and when her mother came into her room and opened wide the curtains of her east window, the sunbeams which came dancing in were very welcome, indeed.

As she lay abed, she thought of many things. Of the children playing games outside; of the picnic which was coming; of the new dress she was to have as soon as she got well—and as she thought, she kept looking at some blue flowers which were figured on the wall paper. Strangely enough, these flowers started to sway gently to and fro. Then out from a clump of them, who should step forth but the Crockeyjoy himself.

"Hello, Ruth," he called, "I've come to take you to Crockeytown, if you care to go." Of course Ruth wanted to go. It was the very thing she had been wishing for. Out of bed she tumbled and away they went across the floor. When they came to the wall, Ruth saw that what she had always thought of as paper with pictures of flowers on it, was really a garden. With the Crockeyjoy leading, into the garden they strolled. Birds sang in the trees. A little fountain tinkled and the drops in it flashed like rainbows in the sunlight. There was the odor of many kinds of fragrant flowers. The air itself felt soft and balmy. It was more beautiful than any dream.

They reached a little cabin and the Crockeyjoy went inside. Ruth heard him talk to some one on the telephone. A moment later a servant with big white apron came and they got in

The car rode more smoothly than a canoe in still water. Ruth was delighted. She heard the Crockeyjoy saying that they were coming to his home very shortly and that if she stayed awake she could see every room in it. For some reason, though, she felt drowsier and drowsier. The ride was making her sleepy. She wanted to keep her eyes open. She wanted to see her mother.

Then the next thing she knew she was back in bed and her mother was standing beside her. "Ruth, dear, what were you dreaming of? You were smiling so happily," said her mother.

Ruth didn't tell because she thought her mother might laugh at her. Right then, she promised herself, that the next time the Crockeyjoy took her on an adventure she would stay awake and see for herself in just what sort of home he lived.

Fine Summer Bill Arranged For Wistaria

Manager Billy Wall goes right on putting on such programs at the Wistaria Theater as you might expect at a house with three or four times the capacity. They are not only good films, but they are right on the heels of the big metropolitan theaters which have exclusive first run privileges. This week's program winds up Saturday night with Lon Chaney in "The Monster," and then see what follows!

First there is "The Shock Punch" with Richard Dix—lots of punch but nothing shocking. It is not a story of prize fighters and prize fights, but of a young fellow who had lightning in his fists—the kind that does not have to strike twice in the same place. The star is the scion of a society family who has taken up boxing to keep from getting soft. He takes a variety of jobs, from street work in New York to iron worker on a big building. His adventures include plenty of comedy, with a delightful romance running all through the story. Frances Howard is the nifty stick of dimpled dynamite who figures so largely in the plot. Does he win her? Come and see this screen adaptation of the big serial which ran in the Liberty magazine.

The next offering on this fine midsummer bill is "The Sporting Venus. If you can't go to the beach for a swim, get into the swim with Blanche Sweet, Ronald Colman and Lew Cody who are the stars. It is the tale of a headstrong, titled beauty, a poor land and a fortune-hunting prince, against a background of castles, Scottish heather, gay life in London and Paris, and told with an amazing rapidity of action and gripping suspense.

Douglas Fairbanks returns Thursday and Friday, this time in a story of the California of a century ago. "The Mark of Zorro" is a screen version of "The Curse of Capistrano" which appeared as a novel in the All-Story magazine. It gives plenty of opportunity for the stunts without which no Fairbanks picture is complete. A fine assortment of short comedies rounds out the week's program.

Warren Preston is erecting a new dwelling at 503 W. Montecito.

Manager C. E. House of the Canyon Swimming Pool reports the biggest day's business Sunday in the history of the pool. The pool was filled with bathers from 7:30 in the morning until late at night.

Mrs. Marie P. Watson has started erection of a new home at 283 W. Laurel adjoining her present home.

Thomas J. McBurney is building a new cottage in Sierra Madre Canyon Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Sullivan of St. Louis, Mo., are spending their vacation in Sierra Madre as guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Craig. Mr. Sullivan is employed in the St. Louis Terminal.

Lawrence Schneider returned last week from Washington where he has spent the past year.

Dwight Hollister of Alhambra expects to start building a house on his lot in Marlborough Terrace soon.

N. Y. Man Praises Port In the West

Los Angeles harbor, with its magnificent dock and warehouse facilities, is surpassed by no port on the Atlantic coast, and the consummation of the proposed greater harbor development scheme will undoubtedly make it one of the greatest and cheapest operating ports of the world.

This is the opinion of Herbert J. Kehoe, general agent at New York for the American-Hawaiian Steamship company, who has been conducting a survey of the local harbor. The prominent steamship official made his first visit here in eight years and marveled at the tremendous strides which have been made along the waterfront.

The steamship official made known the fact that traveling representatives of his company on the east coast, as well as others, are frequently faced with demands for complete detailed information regarding industrial and shipping facilities and possibilities of Los Angeles harbor, and the principal reason for his visit was that he might personally investigate the situation here and be in a position to fully describe such facilities and possibilities to the numerous shippers and industrial authorities on the east coast with whom his organization comes in contact.

Down from the North

YOUR Gas Company is bringing an 84-mile high pressure Natural Gas line which is being tied onto our local gas distribution system.

Starting at the Ventura River fields, this 12-inch gas main extends through Santa Paula, Fillmore, and passes the old home of Ramona at Camulos. A few miles south it spans the Santa Clara River and disappears over the Newhall Mountains.

On through the famous Fremont Pass it comes, down through the fertile San Fernando Valley, finally joining our existing line west of Montebello. A million and a half dollars is the cost of this important improvement which will make adequate your gas supply during the coming years.

Luncheon Held in the Wistaria
Vine Tea Garden

The regular weekly luncheon of the Sierra Madre chamber of commerce was held on July 14th at the Wistaria Vine Garden overlooking the beautiful San Gabriel valley. Thirty-two people showed their appreciation of this wonder spot by partaking of a most delightful luncheon midst exquisite surroundings.

The question of the advisability of establishing a high class private school in Sierra Madre was informally discussed. It was pointed out that owing to its wonderful home atmosphere and climatic conditions Sierra Madre would be an ideal location for such a project.

A representative of the Woman's club and the city trustees will be asked to meet with one member of the chamber of commerce for the purpose of forming a committee to investigate and render a report upon the possibilities of establishing such a school in Sierra Madre.

The next regular luncheon will be held at the Wistaria Vine garden on Tuesday, April 21, at noon.

NOTICE TO WATER CONSUMERS

In order to meet the greater increased demand for water during the present season, as well as meeting the increased pumping condition necessary to furnish the different reservoirs with sufficient water to meet the exacting demands of domestic water consumers, it will be necessary to request the discontinuance of sprinkling lawns and flowers around the homes of this City, except between the hours of five to eight o'clock in the afternoons, until further notice.

J. D. SPARKS,
42: President Board of Trustees.Scientists Find
No Effect of Sea Current

California, notable for its hydroelectric currents, now is acquiring fame for another variety of current, which has been attributed to the golden state by several eastern newspapers.

This latter distinction for the land of sunshine, according to these newspaper notices, is the Humboldt current, an oceanic stream, starting somewhere in the far southern waters of the Pacific, and traveling somewhere in the north.

Mariners and scientists seem convinced such a stream exists, but few actually claim to know where it flows. Dr. Ford A. Carpenter, meteorologist of the University of California, Los Angeles branch, says it is some 10,000 miles off shore, while Colonel A. H. Heisey of the local federal weather bureau service, declares its location is undefined.

The eastern newspaper story says the stream has wandered into another course and has affected the California weather. Carpenter, Heisey and other scientists declare it always was too far removed from the shoreline to have any visible effect on the climate.

Mrs. R. W. Bondurant of Portland, Oregon, spent the week-end in Sierra Madre visiting Mr. and Mrs. Woodson F. Jones, 124 East Alegria street. Mrs. Bondurant is engaged in charity work in then other city and is visiting various charitable organizations in Southern California during the summer months.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Davis spent Sunday picnicking at Balboa Beach.

Car Falls From High Embankment

A Durant sport model roadster, driven by William Perry and in which another man was riding, left the Sturtevant road at the second turn from the Corum burro corral Sunday evening, while attempting to pass another car. Mr. Perry took the outside of the trail and his brakes seemed to fail to hold, and the car and its occupants plunged over the embankment at one of the highest points of the automobile road. The car turned around about half way down the embankment and lodged but did not turn over. Neither of the two men was seriously injured though they escaped with their lives only by a miracle.

Observations

swers would be twenty years from now.

YOUR NEIGHBOR AS YOURSELF

"Good will is the disposition of the customer to return to the place where he has been well treated."

The definition is attributed to the United States Supreme Court and deserves the thought of all business men, especially of every small town merchant. Good will is not accidental. It is developed in a variety of ways, all of which are worth careful study. The man who is on the ground and comes into personal contact and acquaintance with his customers has the big advantage over all outside competition. Standing alone, "trade at home" is the weakest slogan in the world. But backed by friendly courtesy, reasonable prices and good service, it is unbeatable.

Sharp practice, carelessness, and discourtesy destroy good will. And that injures not only the guilty merchant but the entire business community. It drives trade away to the city, to follow the allurements offered by the keenest merchandising brains of the country. The offended shopper going to the city for one thing will probably buy other things as well, spending money which might as well have been kept at home.

For the most part the merchants of Sierra Madre have the right idea of the importance of good will. What they need is for their neighbors to give them a chance to demonstrate.

IF YOU MUST WHITEWASH

Of course, too much good will might produce a rush of business that would be embarrassing to some merchants. They are like old Zeb who was operating on his barn with a whitewash brush somewhat the worse for age. The squire passing by suggested, "Zeb, if you had a brush with a few more bristles in it, you could do twice as much work."

After turning the matter over in his mind for a minute, Zeb replied, "Mebbeso, mebbeso, Squire, mebbeso. Only you see, Squire, I ain't got twice as much work to do."

SUPERVISORS TO ABANDON SEWER DISTRICT HERE

The proceedings initiated by the county board of supervisors a few days ago to establish a metropolitan sewer district in this district have been abandoned, according to word received from the office of the board of supervisors this week. It is understood that there will soon be a similar district organized but with some changes in the territory covered. Several of the towns have started work already on the perfecting of organizations for the purpose of putting over a bond issue which will be necessary to make the district effective. It is planned by the originators of the idea to build a trunk line sewer system from the San Gabriel valley to the sea.

Bud Bains and Preston Schwartz have purchased a sail boat at Balboa Beach.

Bird in Desperation

Attacked Water Tank

In February, 1924, ten months before our journey (by motor across the Sahara) our predecessors had left on their passage in the midst of the Tanzeruft, a big gasoline tank filled with water and hermetically sealed, says Henri de Kerrilla, in L'Echo de Paris. As our route followed their wheel marks, we came upon it.

But imagine our astonishment to find stretched out beside this tank the dried body of an immense vulture. Lost in the immensity of the desert, where there was not even an insect for company or food, but endowed with a marvelous instinct that we have not yet begun to fathom, this bird knew there was water here. Either he directed his flight.

We could see where he had cast himself upon the tank and attacked it desperately with his beak. The metal bore the marks of his assault; the ground was covered with his feathers where he had beaten himself vainly against it. And he had died the same cruel Saharan death that had overtaken the camel drivers 70 miles away.

Big Confabs To Be Held at Los Angeles

With the International Kindergarten Union convention, representing 31,000 teachers in all parts of the world, having drawn to a close in Los Angeles, and the International New Thought alliance meet, which opened July 11, scheduled to run until July 21, that city now is preparing to welcome in August members of the American Chemical society, the American Philatelic society, and the Beta Phi Sigma fraternity.

Helping to mark Los Angeles as one of the outstandingly favored convention centers of the country, September is scheduled to bring about confabs of the State American Legion, the Forty and Eight Veterans of California and the Rainbow division Veterans, California chapter.

BOOK OF BRAILLE GETS NOTICE OF LARGE NUMBER

Considerable interest has been manifested in the exhibit of Braille writing in the window of the Sierra Madre News and the article in the paper last week, telling of Mrs. Welsher's work in transcribing books for the blind. The story has been copied by several of the papers on the exchange list of the Sierra Madre News and there is generally a crowd of from one to a half dozen persons looking at the queer typewriter and the samples of Braille writing in the window of the News.

The Braille machine was purchased some time ago by the Sierra Madre chapter of the Red Cross and Mrs. Welsher has become quite proficient in its operation. This is only one of many activities that the local chapter has undertaken. During the forest fire last year it looked after the needs of the men on the fire line in many ways and paid the expenses of a doctor and nurse to care for those who had become injured or ill while on duty.

YUCCA BLOOM

Fold upon folds the mountains lie
Towering up to the bright blue sky;
Grey are their slopes and living green—

While the wonderful yuccas blossom between,

With their pale candles gleaming from afar

Like a beautiful flame from some bright star.

While green are the trees at the mountain rim

Where birds are singing their matin hymn.

Sweetest of music their voices raise
All to the great Creator's praise.

Upon each of us His Peace may fall
As we gaze in awe at the mountains tall

And listen to bird song rising so sweet;

While the glow of the candles' wonderful light

Wakes a flame in our hearts all glowing and bright,

As we breathe a prayer for peace and love

Fresh from the Father's hand above.
